Dear Mrs. Laliberté:

I am pleased to extend an invitation to you to attend our conference on "Social Change and National Defence", to be held in Toronto, 21st to 23rd of February, 1990.

The conference will be attended by 90 to 100 persons, prominent in national security planning, government policy analysis, human resource management, education, labour, futures research and family studies. Participants will explore the critical issues arising from the unprecedented social change that Canadians may expect during the next 20 to 30 years. They will hear a number of theme speakers and participate in one of several seminar working groups.

Our objective is to stimulate thinking, discussion and subsequent action on the major social issues that we face, with a focus on large organizations, including the Canadian Forces. Your background, work and interests are believed to be particularly appropriate to a programme of this nature.

The enclosed information provides details of the conference content and organization. We anticipate that the conference will be of interest to many more than we are able to invite. Therefore, I draw your attention to the registration form and ask that you inform the Planning Committee as soon as possible of your intentions. In early February, registrants will receive an additional package containing final details and background reference materials.

Thank you for your interest. I look forward to meeting with you and a successful conference.

Sincerely,

Mary Collins
