February 13, 1978

Since 1910 International Women's Day has commemorated through protest and celebration the struggles of women in the workplace, in the home, and in society the world over.

We are joining women in Vancouver, Montreal, Ottawa and many other Canadian and European cities in organizing massive actions to commemorate and renew our struggles to gain control over our lives.

The main issues put forward by the International Women's Day Committee concern child care, cutbacks in social services, unemployment, full rights for immigrant, ethnic and lesbian women and more humane services for women who are victims of violence and other issues which are vital women.

It is to these injustices that a broad committee of over 130 women is addressing itself in Toronto right now. The International Women's Day Committee is planning a major demonstration and celebration for International Women's Day 1978: on March 11th.

The women's movement is up on its feet and marching, and we think you will want to be a part of it. To build a strong and effective action on March 11, we need your endorsement and your donation.

Should you need a speaker to explain the International Women's Day history or plans in more detail, please phone 486-5170. Also for literature and future information contact that phone number.
