Scholarship

“An indispensable tool for all researchers, students and teachers.”

Canadian Research Institute for the Advancement of Women.

“Consistently excellent in coverage and content. A phenomenal publication.”

Sarah Sherman, Northwestern University Library, Chicago, U.S.A.

“Incredibly substantial works, invaluable as a source guide.”

ISIS International Bulletin, Carouge, Switzerland and Rome, Italy.

And from Emergency Librarian:

“To put all these works at your fingertips there is definitely no more useful source than . . .

Resources for Feminist Research.

RFR RESOURCES FOR (Formerly the Canadian Newsletter of Research on Women, 1972-1978)

DRF FEMINIST RESEARCH

Resources for Feminist Research:

an interdisciplinary, international journal

Resources for Feminist Research:

a network of people active in teaching, research and advocacy for women

Resources for Feminist Research:

a unique research quarterly

Why unique? Whether your field is women's studies, gender relations, sex roles, feminist studies, or women's advocacy, RFR is your sourcebook for the latest international information and research. Only RFR contains thematic dossiers which combine articles, book reviews and review essays with an extensive resource guide. Only RFR contains an international guide to feminist periodicals and resources — updated in each issue. RFR is also the best source of information on work in progress internationally and an excellent guide to unpublished work, government reports, pamphlets and small press materials, because ordering information and addresses are reported wherever available.

REGULAR FEATURES:

- Over 300 abstracts in each issue covering: Education — Social Sciences — Humanities — Social Policy — Health & Sciences
- Book reviews and critical essays.
- Bibliographies
- Discussions and teaching materials for Women's Studies
- Announcements: conferences, forthcoming publications, events . . .
- Thematic dossiers

Recently published dossiers: Literature and the Arts; Anthropology; Political Theory; Canadian Women's History; The Politics of Cultural Policies; Psychology.

RESOURCES FOR FEMINIST RESEARCH also produces occasional Special Publications. See reverse side for more information.
